DETAILED INSTRUCTIONS CONCERNING THE USE OF THESE RED STAMPS

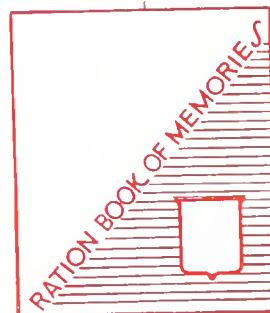

Ration Book One

Turn to page 11. This stamp authorizes you to recall the seniors, juniors, and underclassmen in the quantities and at the times designated by the O. P. A. supervisors—the faculty.

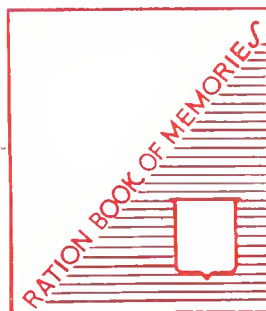

Ration Book Two

Turn to page 33. Without this stamp you will be unable to view the various clubs, the band, the glee club, and the super salesmen. Give your whole support to rationing and thereby conserve vital memories.

Ration Book Three

Turn to page 47. This stamp is valid only as the lawful holder participates in sports. When you have used your ration, salvage your spirits for the G. A. A., Rifle club, track, physical fitness, basketball, E club, laurels and snaps. Help to maintain the established price ceilings of the merchants who have helped us with ads.

WARNING:

READ INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY SO THAT YOU MAY OBTAIN BEST RESULTS FROM YOUR BOOK.

Meet Your

is the chief of the board of appeals. He also rations credits, class schedules, his paddle, and the excuses of the absentee-minded (he can change your mind, too). Serving on the tire board number 3 is another of his duties.

Back Row: Jerry Pond, Freeman Lehman, Joan Cartiger, Don Lundgren.
Second Row: Sylvia Gillett, Marjorie Beck, Don Schneider, Joan Stemen.
Front Row: Carol Kling, Mila Haag.

Alloting memories for you consumers is a big job. Miss Falls is the number 1 head of this Annie board and has a veto power equal to the President's. Beverly and Althea ration the pictures and check the copy. Joan C., Doris and Mila compile the senior mileage statistics. The underclassmen come under the control of Sylvia and Marjorie. They keep them in line—quite a long line, too. Remember to exchange your stamps for activity tokens. Vera, Joan S., and Pat have charge of the official business of the clubs and their activities.

Ration Board

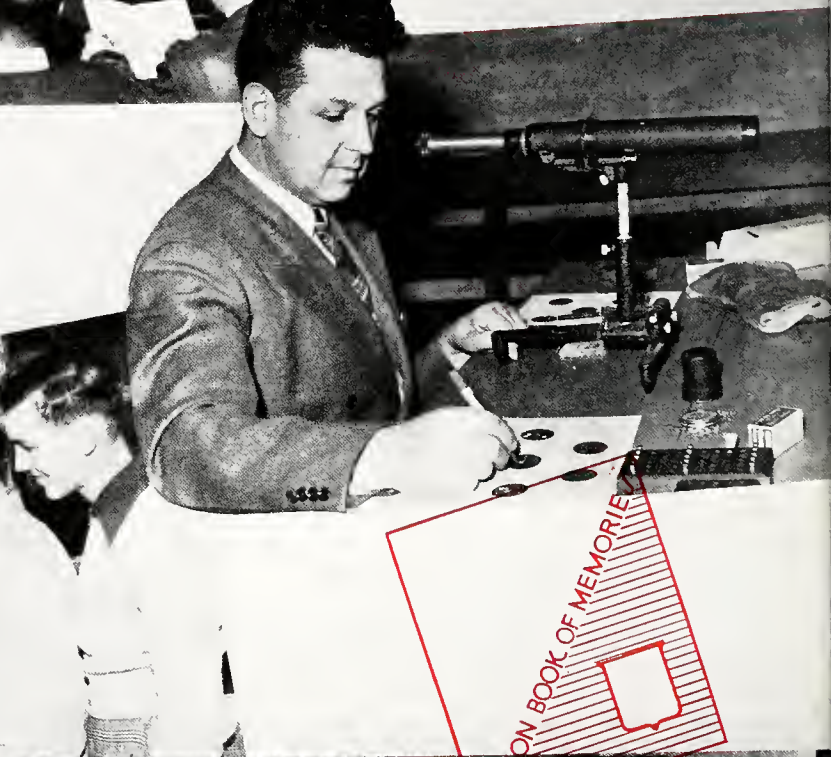

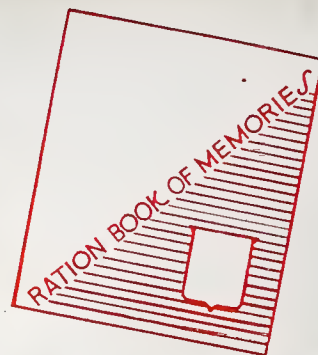

Trustee Walter F. Hayes

does not ration his genial disposition nor suggestions. He especially enjoyed aiding Annie's picture helpers take snapshots. He's also liberal with his keys. He does ration bus drivers, bus and school maintenance, the janitors, the teachers, salaries and equipment.

Although the alphabet is ration free, typewriters and typists are hard to get. Carol, Jean and Iona see to it that there is no impending shortage of accurate copy. Every senior issues application blanks for the Anlibrum. Gale files these applications, and with the help of the two Dons and Jerry works out the unit values for the A (Anlibrum and Ad) card holders. Basketball, volleyball—sports in general are in charge of the coordinators, Dick and Freeman. Trojans, here is the go-ahead signal. Here is your slice of what's cookin' at Elmhurst.

We, the juniors, are on our third stamp already and running mighty low on points. We have one more stamp which we will have to save for next year.

Early in the year we had our class meeting at which we elected Wayne Bradtmiller as president; Carl Ray, vice-president; and Ruth Bastian, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Fryback and Miss Van Fleit are the sponsors of our class.

We did fairly well during the magazine campaign. Room 11 ranked fourth place with $5.72 per capita sales. A proportional amount of the magazine sales was given to us for the Prom. Our magazine secretaries were Bob Kinerk for room 12, and Norma Eiche for room 11. Bob Kinerk, John Kussmaul, and Joan McKinney were our high salesmen throughout the magazine drive.

On the evening of December 23, we had a Christmas party, our first semester activity, in the school gymnasium. The committee chairmen were as follows: decoration, Barbara Keever; refreshments, Mary Lou Manes; entertainment, Virginia Yoquelet and Pat DeBolt. The gym was decorated with mistletoe, wreaths, bells and other traditional Christmas decorations. For entertainment we danced, had contests, and played various games. Harry Ruber acted as M. C. All of us had the best time of our lives.

In January, our class officers appointed people to serve on committees for the Prom which was held April 29 in the gym. The committees were as follows: general chairman, B. Keever; Prom Queen election committee: W. Bradtmiller, D. Millhouse, C. Ray, R. Bastian; decoration committee: D. Schmidt, D. Edwards, J. Engleman, C. Oyer, E. Richardson, L. Ford, R. Moore, M. Link, H. Ruber, P. McCoy, J. Neff, D. Smith, V. Yoquelet, P. DeBolt; invitation committee: J. McKinney, L. Hadley, R. Wilkie, M. Reinking, N. Eiche, M. Roemke; entertainment: C. Ray, R. Parkison, R. Valentine, G. Snyder, N. Christoff; food committee: M. L. Manes, L. Watkins, B. Chiddister, M. Baughman, M. Staynoff, M. Smith, L. Hoepfner, R. Kinerk, I. M. Zollinger, H. Schimmoller.

"Wise Fools!" That's what we're called. We're wiser than you think, too, as we have used only two of the coupons in our E book. So far we have received full satisfaction and point value from our coupons.

We really make ourselves heard. We've been told often, too often, that we're too noisy in the upper hall and in room 15 at noon. Since we have lunch before the upper-classmen, we gotta celebrate being first in the ration line.

Celebrate? Did we say celebrate? We've done something this year to really blow our horns about. In our home room hangs the banner of victory in the magazine campaign. We beat all the home rooms by selling $8.97 per capita. Alvin Busse, a sophomore, sold the most magazines in the whole school. Genial Mr. Eickhoff, who calms us down and starts every morning off right for us, egged us on to this selling feat.

He egged us on so well that we just showed the other home rooms that we really were super-salesmen. We bought and also sold the most war bonds and stamps before December 7. Stan McKeeman, a sophomore, was in charge of this jeep financing campaign. Another banner, a minute man flag, decorates our home room.

There is one more thing for us to brag about. We led the honor roll all first semester. Twenty-six of the 91 members of our class received that extra value from their E coupons.

Mrs. Pletcher, librarian, and Miss Campen, social studies instructor, share the sponsorship of our class. They helped us plan a Christmas party, but the flu epidemic and a week's vacation ruined our plans. So we had our party January 29.

Stan McKeeman heads our class with Bill Langmeyer assisting him. Helen Mutton is our secretary-treasurer. Too bad we don't have a picture of them in technicolor for Stan is black-haired; Bill is a blonde, and Helen is redheaded.

Yes, we're the freshies—68 boys, 60 girls. We're the ones who have been most saving of our E coupons. In fact, the upperclassmen and faculty clamped down on us and let us spend only one coupon this year. Personally, we'd like to rush through Elmhurst like a streamlined train; but you know how this rationing system imposes tight restrictions.

How did we spend the year? Well, we, a lot of us, took algebra, biology, English, etc. At these jobs we put in long hours, but many of us saw our names on the honor roll so it was worth it.

Our first chance to show our spirit was in the magazine campaign. We came in sixth in the home rooms contest. We sold $5.40 per capita. Anyway, we beat rooms 12 and 14.

Next we chose officers. Milo Eiche is our president. He also sells us war stamps and bonds. Milo is quite a salesman for he topped the magazine sales in room 5, our home room.

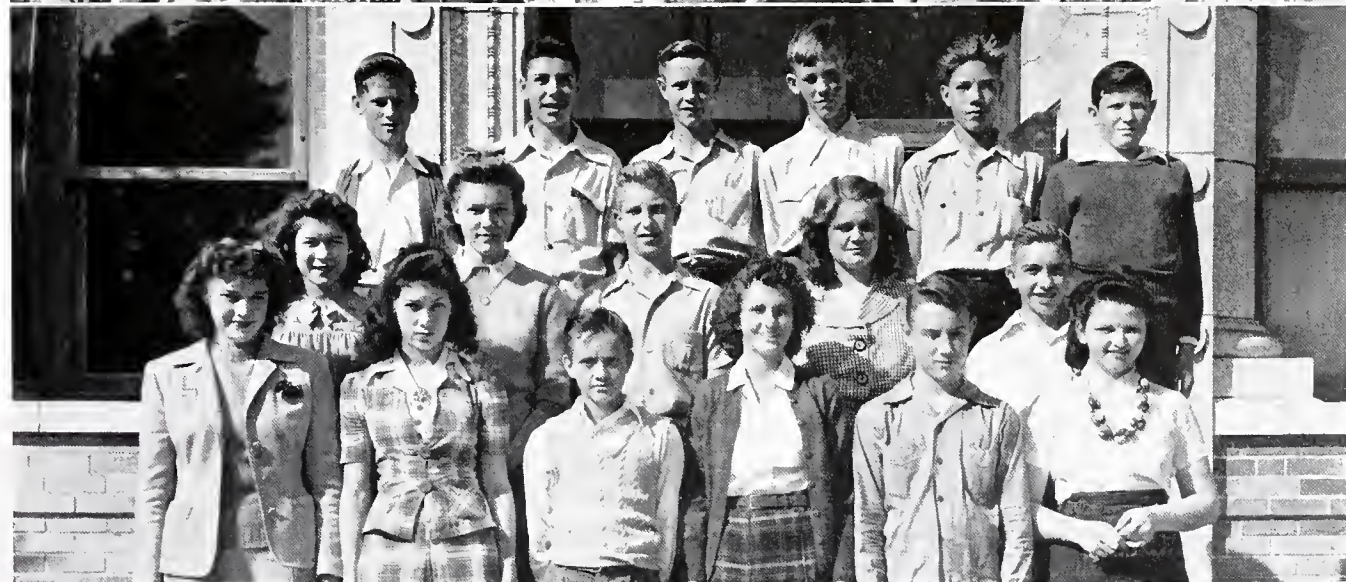

Joe Rice is class vice-president. He's active in the Glee Club and Red Cross Club.

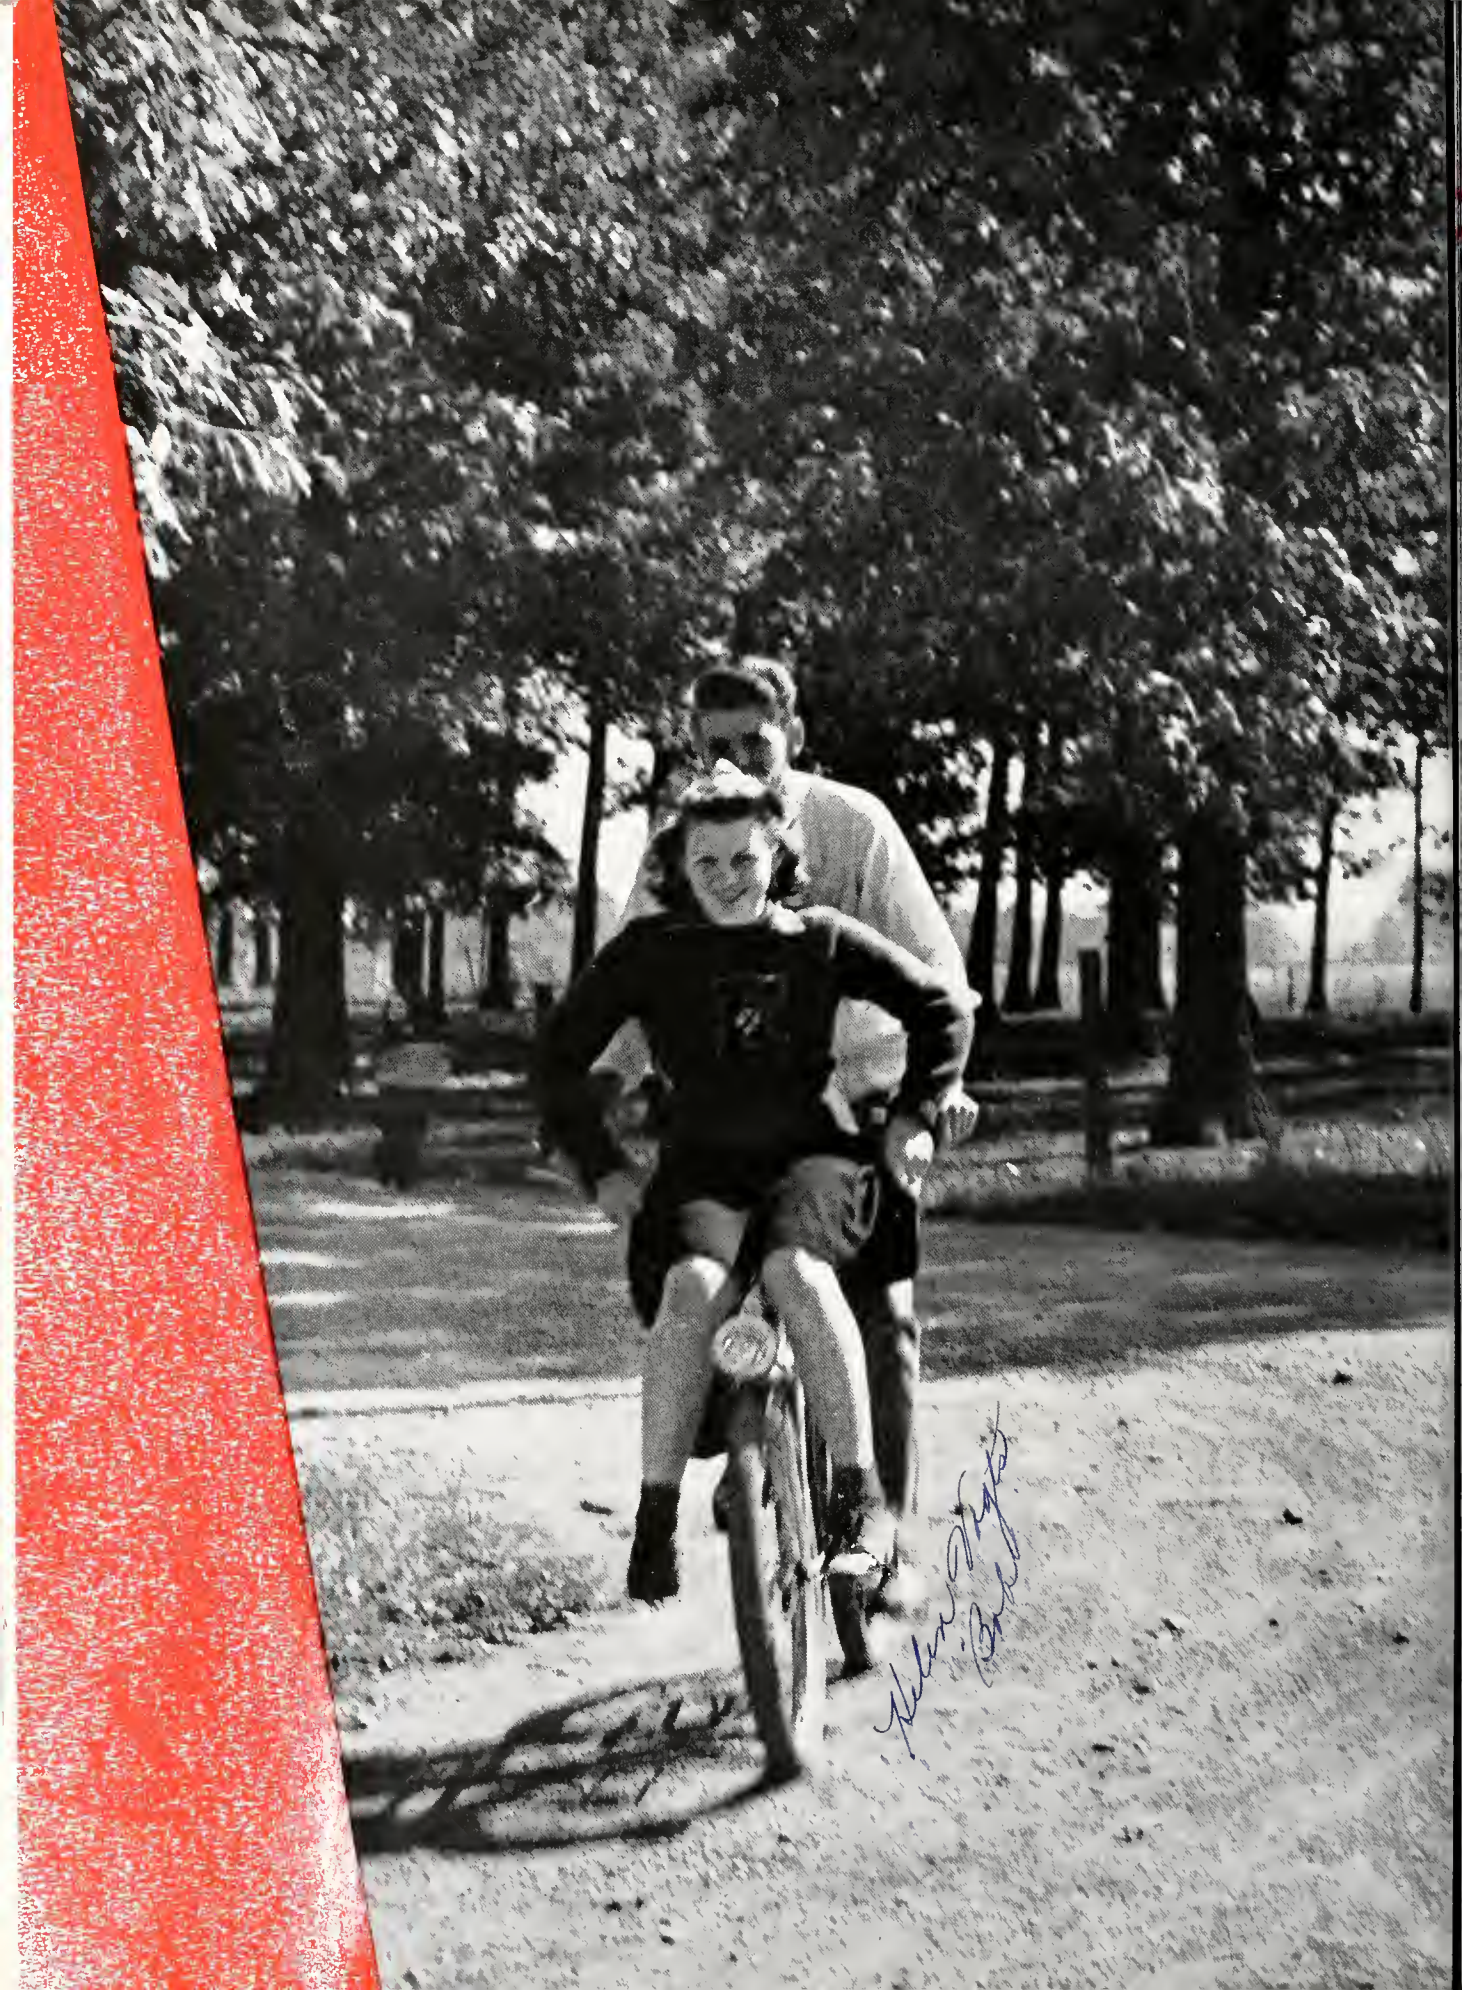

Lieselotte Holzman keeps our records. Chick Giffin handles our money. Both are members of the Red Cross Club. Chick helps Joe out in Glee Club.

Our sponsor is Mr. Logan. He's that stern man who checks absences, makes announcements, supervises our lunch hour and tour of the halls, and sees to it that we study first thing in the morning and last period in the afternoon. He also teaches many of us about x and y . We're still working on what x equals. The trials of a freshman! Oh me, oh us!

The flu epidemic cancelled our Christmas party. However, we started our second semester with a party January 28. And we hope that no more shortages or rationing will prevent us from using the very last of our E coupons for a party in the spring.

Commercial Coupons Always Valid

The Commercial Club progressed very nicely this year under the able guidance of Sylvia Gilleff assisted by Joan Carriger. Beverly Baker kept tab on the minutes, and Wilma Jean Palmer took care of the money. Miss Edwards, commercial teacher, was the sponsor.

At the first meeting, Sylvia appointed a standing committee to provide entertainment at each of the monthly meetings. On this committee were Jeanne Hartman, Janell McKeeman, Mila Haag and Patricia Manes.

At each meeting after the roll call was taken, each of the members was to respond with a response or pay the piggy bank a penny fine. This response had to be in some way connected with commercial subjects or the business world.

At the first monthly meeting, the standing committee informed the members a mock trial was to take place, with Bill Shaw as judge; Sam Ventrueella, clerk; Joan Carriger, defendant; Marjorie Beck, defense attorney; and Alvin Busse, prosecuting attorney. These appointments were made wisely and the trial went over big with lots of laughs and fun.

The Commercial Club's first semester party was held on January 15 in the school gym. The food committee consisted of Jeanne Hartman, Meriam Nash, Ielene Leonard, and Susan Churchward. Joey Davison, Phyllis McCoy, Joan Carriger and Marilyn Trzynka were in charge of the amateur radio hour program.

To be eligible for membership in the Commercial Club the members must take at least one commercial subject. The commercial subjects are bookkeeping, shorthand and typing.

Phi-Chem Club Rations Are Scientific

Boy ! What a wonderful club! Just super-duper for getting the know on the scientific highlights and experiments of the year.

The club started off right by continuing its long habit of being one of the most active clubs at Elmhurst. Mr. W. H. Carnahan, who has the distinction of writing a text book on mathematics, gave a talk and demonstration on mathematics and science. His talk was both interesting and informative. Big eyes and loud sighs were quite in evidence by the members; but, then, that was only the first demonstration. Now that a semester has passed these followers of Galileo Galilei know that just about anything can happen in the world of science. Yes sir, 'cause they're scientists now!

Next the Phi-Chem Club took a walking tour through Fort Wayne's water works. The members secured the lowdown on just how the St. Mary's river water can be made into pure, clear drinking water for the citizens of Fort Wayne.

Miss Wimmer and Mr. Logan are the sponsors of the club. Both are excellent sponsors, too, the members all agree. Freeman Lehman was elected president; Carl Ray, vice-president; and Joan Carriger, secretary-treasurer.

Freeman used his executive powers to appoint an entertainment committee with Jack Sinn, chairman; Vera McGregor, Betty Bassett, Lucille Hoepner, and Tom English to determine the club's activities. With this group in charge of ideas, the future will be merry and bright. So will these scientists after the second semester demonstrations planned have been presented.

Advance Scoops Points Of Interest

It's the Advance staff doing its duty by all you Trojans and giving you the lowdown on what's cooking and what's on the future menu. Rationing and such doesn't interfere at all with news, feature, or sports. In fact, rationing is good material for human interest stories for the paper. Mary Ann Ditzenberger, editor; Calvin Oyer and Vera MacGregor, assistant editors; Betty Bassett, feature editor; Stan McKeeman, news editor; Alvin Busse, sports editor; Phyllis McCoy, make-up editor; and headline editors, Nick Christoff and Marjorie Beck, have the paper well in hand. But these Trojans aren't the only ones who make up the Advance staff. Heavens no! Reporters, feature writers, sports writers, typists, copy-readers and room agents all do a big job for the paper.

Dick Schmidt, the business manager, and his assistant, Dick Kahlenbeck see that the Advance doesn't begin or end its bookkeeping in the red. Gale Scott, advertising manager, and his assistant, Marlyn McNamara; circulation manager, Bill Langmeyer; exchange manager, Dale Prince; and advertising solicitors all do their part in keeping the Advance running. Bill Hanke supervises the sending of the Advance to all the alumni of Elmhurst in the services. Mrs. Pletcher and Mr. Logan are the faculty advisers for the Advance and help the staff when it sends out an S. O. S. The four-paged Advance is a star at Elmhurst with its Trid Column, Grannie's Cookie Jar, and Trojan Trumpetings. In fact, the Advance is to Elmhurst what Betty Grable is to Twentieth Century-Fox.

Red Crossers Collect And Contribute

The Junior Red Cross Club is one of the most important clubs of Elmhurst High. It is supported by the majority of the student body. Bob Rice was elected president; Carl Ray, vice-president; and Joe Rice, secretary and treasurer of this club. Miss Wimmer, health and chemistry teacher, is the sponsor.

The Red Cross Club is responsible for the unique hall monitor system we have. What is a hall monitor? He is the person you see sitting in the desk at either entrance of the building and whose duty is to greet strangers coming into the building and take them where they wish to go (usually to the office).

The Red Cross Club helps out in the great present day responsibilities. It is this club that collects games for men in the service; scrap paper to help out the paper shortage; tin cans for the metal shortage; pennies for the National Junior Red Cross; money for the tuberculosis drive, and also contributions for the March of Dimes which is to aid the curing of infantile paralysis.

The club had a Christmas party December 18 in the school gym. Everyone brought a ten cent gift which Santa Claus delivered. The party consisted of dancing and a swell stage show. The entertainers were Frankie Swoonatra, two drunken gentlemen aboard train, a gay nineties quartette, songs, instrumental trio, piano solo and a reading of "The Night Before Christmas".

When Annie went to press, the home rooms were still competing in salvage drives and looking forward to the big party promised to the winner.

No Rationing On Our Calendar

Nothing was on the ration list on the Home Ec Club's bulletin board. Girls, fun, work and activities were not rationed.

The first semester highlight was a skating party held on October 16. In spite of the shortage of gas coupons, and the thinness of the tires that one finds impossible to get nowadays, the party was very well attended. The treasurer was quite busy for a time with the profits derived from the party.

During the pre-holiday season, the girls made stockings and filled them with fruit and candy for the boys at Baer Field. Patty Ferguson and Joan Stickleman were especially active in this work.

Their old custom of exchanging names in peanuts and giving their peanut sisters little surprise gifts on birthdays, Christmas and Valentine's Day was again carried on this year.

Jeanne Hartman led this group as president; Marion Clevenger as vice-president; and Mary Lou Manes as secretary. Martha Wood and Joan Stickleman alternated as treasurer. Miss Simon, cafeteria manager, was their adviser. Mary Ann Ditzenberger assisted her. Although Marion Clevenger withdrew from school, the girls did not elect anyone to fill her position.

Cupids and hearts were very young and gay for the whole school at the Valentine party sponsored by the Home Ec girls on February 12. The Sagebrush Ramblers from Decatur played for the dancing. J. Hartmann, M. A. Ditzenberger, J. Klerner, and M. O. Graft were in charge of the program. J. McKeeman, J. Engleman, P. Buell, M. Trzynka and J. Stickleman made and put up the decorations. V. Holle, I. Brock, E. Hatfield, M. Hatfield and E. Feuchter served the refreshments.

Artists Go All-Out For Murals

"Hand me that paint brush, please!"

"Oh, I simply can't seem to make this girl's eyes look natural! Oh! There I got it."

"Oh, kid, that's swell!"

The Art Club members are doing a lot of mural work this year, but then artists must have practice, you know. What could be a better way to practice than painting murals or, well—just plain pictures to most of us? Berniece Parker, and Margaret Nash, together with the assistance of the other members, created a lovely backdrop for the Glee Club Christmas Cantata.

A Shakespearean mural, painted by Betty Bassett, Jon Neff and the members of the club, portrays those famous characters of "A Midsummer-Night's Dream,"—Bottom, Puck, and Titania. That lovable character Bottom, is caught right smack in the bucket in such a deplorable condition! His head has turned into that of a donkey. People just shouldn't get in such a state!

In addition to this work, the walls of room 4 are being adorned with murals of the basketball boys, drum major, drum majorettes, and school activities in general.

The Art Club has a new sponsor this year, Miss Wigton; and the whole club is very glad to have her for their sponsor. Betty Bassett was elected president by the members; Beatrice Parker, vice-president; and Betty Chiddister, secretary-treasurer. The twenty-one members of the Art Club planned activities for the second semester, but no activities were held during the first semester.

The Glee Club Aids Our Morale

The Glee Club as every one knows is a singing club. This club aids the morale of the school by ending the day on a happy note.

When the last bell of the day has rung and the students come pouring out of every available exit, you can tell just which ones are members of the Glee Club because they are usually humming or singing the song which the bell interrupted. Many students within hearing range of the singers also join in on their way out the door.

On Wednesday, September 15, the Glee Club elected its officers for the year. From the fifty girls and sixteen boys Ina Mae Zollinger was elected president; Helen Mutton vice-president, and Dorothy Ritter secretary and treasurer.

Miss Wigton, a new member of the Elmhurst faculty, is the director of the Glee Club. Helen Mutton assists her by playing the piano.

The Glee Club, just before the Christmas vacation, presented the school with a Cantata on December 24. This program consisted of songs by the choruses, duets, solos, quartettes, double quartets, and piano solos. The audience also joined in on several of the familiar songs.

The program was as follows:

Song: "Joy To The World." Glee Club and audience.

Girl's Glee Club: "Wonderful Story" with soprano obligato

"Silent Night" flute, violin and clarinet. Piano accompaniment

Solo: "Jesu Bambino." Ina Mae Zollinger

Double Mixed Quartet: "Santa Lucia" with explanation by Dorothy Ritter and Ruth Carpenter

Origin of the Red Cross: Ila Mae Houghton

Piano Solo: Jackie Haight

Solo: Dorothy Allison

"The Four Freedoms": Jack Kortokrax, Jon Neff, Stan McKeeman, and Jean Hirsch

Songs: Glee Club and audience

"White Christmas"

"Jingle Bells"

"Star Spangled Banner"

"The Glee Club is one of the several electives in our school curriculum.

"Many pupils are talented in this manner so the club gives an opportunity for group expression. Our school spirit is reflected in songs and how we sing them.

"With modern inventions, more and more time is made available for leisure. Those who have hobbies such as music, art, or reading, will have no trouble using that time after the war.

"In this activity we learn by doing rather than studying. Singing is a skill that comes through practice. This reaches out into the social life and adds a joyous note to all concerned.

"More is written to be heard now than ever before. The quality of the voice is more important since the invention of radio and sound pictures.

"Our girls' glee club hopes to preserve the "mother tongue" by means of building a good chorus for Elmhurst High by studying the 3-"T"'s: Time-Tune-Tonality.

"Walter Damrosch said: 'The decline or incline of a nation depends upon the way its people spend leisure.' One third of our life is spent in bed, one third working, and the remaining third on various activities.

"Sports build health, books contribute knowledge of facts, but music keeps up the morale," says Miss Wigton.

Beat Rationing! Limit: 3 Beats Per Measure

The band holds a spot in the heart of every student of dear old Elmhurst. Some students think of it as a joke, but most of them are proud of the band.

The band, as a whole, has lots of fun. It has many opportunities which the other students don't receive. As an example, the band gets to go to the county tourney free of charge and with transportation furnished.

The members of the band think they have a swell director. Although Mr. Fryback does get a little tough every once in a while, he is still o. k. Sometimes he preaches quite a little sermon, calling those present cute names and telling them how exceedingly intelligent they seem to him. Then he tells them that he really doesn't like to be "hard-nosed" with them but sometimes he has to be in order to get them to do anything. But isn't he right?

Some outstanding members are: Phyllis Henning, Jack Sinn, Carl Ray, Don Schneider, Bob Kinerk, Dave Brunkhart, Joan Stemen, and Jerry Pond. These people are what's wrong with the band. Phyll, although a very good clarinet player, simply can't get out the right music at the right time. Jack and Carl are tops on trombone; but they are wolves of one certain class, and when girls come into the room they have the nerve to sit back and howl like the animal itself. Don, Bob, and Dave are quite a trio. Don is usually quiet and bashful and tries to do justice to his cornet while Bob hits the wrong notes and Dave forgets to bring his horn. Joan is that "corney" assistant director who, the two wolves say, wasn't elected for her "directing" ability. Last but not least is that red-headed senior, Jerry, or J. P. as he is usually called, who after playing a sax solo looks up quite innocently and says, "Who made that horrid noise?"

Now the band is not entirely a fun house. It has also a serious side. Everyone knows that co-operation is not "everyone for himself alone" but working together. In the band every person has to listen for the others in order to have the sounds that come forth sound like music and not the opening of Fibber McGee's closet door.

The Elmhurst band has always been well thought of by other schools and people for its ability. The band, although now restricted because of patriotic reasons, has in earlier years won many honors in both marching and playing.

The band is proud of its drum major, twirlers, and flag bearers. They are very outstanding on the parade grounds and are somewhat a camouflage for the rest of the band. Joan Carriger and Sylvia Gilleff have won many honors for their twirling ability and personality. They have been with the band four years. Dick Deuter, Phyllis McCoy, Barbara Keever, Margie Beck, and Virginia Cox make up the rest of the foreground for our marching band. See page 2 for their picture.

The band plays quite a variety of music, popular pieces, marches, and heavier overtures. Among the popular music comes: "White Christmas," "For Me and My Gal," and "Sunday, Monday or Always." Some of the marches are: "The American Patrol," "The Four Freedoms" and "The Four Allies." The overtures are: "The Traveler" and "Bogar."

While refreshing your mind by looking through this book, please list the band with your pleasantest memories.

Thrifty Trojans Back The Attack

Serious faces? You bet. For these are the home room agents for war stamps and bonds. Each Wednesday the eighth period, they report to the office, get their quota of stamps and return to their rooms. Then the line forms to the right. Selling, checking, and making change takes place. When the accounts balance, they turn in their envelopes and money to their director, Mrs. Weiss.

There's been no rationing in this effort, for during the first semester, $15,424.40 worth of bonds and stamps were sold. At the suggestion of Stan McKeeman, we entered a contest to buy as many jeeps as we could. Mr. James F. Keenan, president of the Keenan Hotel System, offered to match us dollar for dollar. By December 7, we had subscribed $7,424. When Mr. Keenan matched our sales, we had enough subscribed to buy more than thirteen jeeps. For this effort, we Trojans won a treasury citation.

Home room 15 led the sales with almost $3,000 worth of bonds and stamps and received a minute man flag award.

The war stamp agents are indeed worthy members of the Victory Corps. We students, too, can take a bow for being thrifty and for backing the attack of our armed forces.

L. Poorman and J. Davison were room agents for 16; J. Pond, room 14; M. Eiche, room 5; K. Cronier, room 6; D. Sutorius and N. Tipton, room 15; D. Schmidt, room 12; M. Smith and J. McKinney, room 11; M. Sheets, room 4; C. Hill, room 9.

"We Are Working Our Way Through A Magazine, Won't You Buy A High School?"

We said we couldn't do it. But we bumped the limit. We sold $2,417.75 worth of magazines this year! Home room 15 sold $664.75 and won the patriotic banner. Home room 6 and 16 were next in per capita sales. Honor salesman, Alvin Busse, who won the $25 bond, hit the top rung of the sales ladder by selling $96.75 worth of subscriptions. Virginia Holle sold $87.50 worth of subscriptions; Kathryn Cronier, $79.25; and Milo Eiche, $70.00. Other super-duper salesmen and women were Ielene Leonard, Bob Kinerk, Betty Taylor, Jeanne Hartman, John Kussmaul, Bob Anderson, Juanita Coleman, and Joan McKinney.

Daily bulletins on the progress of the sales were issued; slogans were announced; and prizes and war stamps were awarded by Mr. Eickhoff, sponsor of the campaign.

Twenty-eight per cent of the money made by seniors gave Annie vitamins worth $133.35. The Juniors were given some per cent of their profits for the Prom.

A public address system will be installed in the school with some of the money also. So the underclassmen aren't cheated a bit. For who will get the most use out of it? The one who will be here longest, of course—the Freshies and Sophs. Then, too, the Magazine Campaign results made it possible to send all Elmhurst men and women in the armed forces, the Advance! So all we Trojans held the bridge of Triumph and won the battle. We found that subscribers and salesmen are not rationed!

Fun For All . . . All For Fun

"Anyone who wishes to play soft-ball please sign on the bulletin board by Wednesday." That is one of the first notices to appear on the blackboard in the home rooms every spring. Soon as you see this sign, you know the G. A. A. has once more started on another year of vigorous activities.

Most of the girls of Elmhurst join the Girls' Athletic Association. This organization provides fun for everyone, two noon hours out of every week. I say everyone! Well, don't the boys have fun watching the girls make a football game out of a basketball game? Sometimes it seems that way. Also some of the names signed on the bulletin board hardly belong to the girls, so the boys enjoy G. A. A. too.

The G. A. A. is one way in which to earn a school letter. For a while this organization was rather "run-down" and unorganized. Now we sincerely hope that it has started on an upward journey to where it will once more mean something to the school.

In order to earn a G. A. A. letter you must have 250 points. These points are earned by various activities both organized and unorganized. The organized activities consist of basketball, softball, and volleyball. These are played in the school at noon. The unorganized activities are many; some are: hiking, swimming, bicycle riding, ping pong, roller skating, dancing, and tennis. A plaque can be earned with 350 points.

The first semester party sponsored by the G. A. A. was a Depression Hop. In order to be admitted into the party you had to be dressed in ragged old clothes. The gymnasium was decorated with newspapers around the walls. The Hop consisted of dancing, a stage show, and lots of laughing and fun, topped off with depression refreshments—crackers and Kool-Aid.

Some of the outstanding factors of this stage show were: a song by Ielene Leonard; a tap dance by Pat DeBolt; acrobatics by Rosalie Watkins; song by Althea Tarr and Joan Stemen; a recitation by Juanita Coleman; a recitation by Beatrice Parker; a wonderful chorus dance by Joan Carriger, Barbara Keever, Susan Churchward, Joey Davison, Althea Tarr, Marjorie Beck, Beverly Baker and Phyllis McCoy; and last but not least—our master of ceremonies "Jackie" Sinn. Didn't I tell you the boys enjoy G. A. A. too?

The basketball teams had beautiful names this season. They were: Fizz-Kids, Pussy-Foots, Murder-Ons, and Wise Owls.

Basketball seems to be the game most enjoyed by the G. A. A. Some of the girls are looking rather battle-scarred by the time they get off the floor.

Some of the jabber that passes among the girls of this club is: "Pat, who plays today?"; "May I borrow your gym suit?"; "To whom do I turn in points for unorganized activities?" By this talk you can recognize the members of G. A. A.

The G. A. A. is organized for the sole purpose of fun in sports. This year's club would like to wish all the clubs in the future as much fun as they have had.

G. A. A.

G. A. A. officers: Luba Jean McKeeman, Joan Carriger, Sylvia Gilleff, Martha Kreigh, Patricia Manes, and Joan Stemen are hoping a ban won't be placed on "giggling".

Among those listed in active duty are Ann Smithson, Phyllis Kummer, Ruby Busch and Carol Bowers.

Restrictions on points are made by Martha Manes, Ruth Post and Ruth Gutmann.

Barbara Keever is on the "swing-shift" while Mary Lou Manes would love to make a "catch".

Miss Grabner tosses the ball; Althea Tarr gets the tip, and Wilma Palmer is confronted by a "shortage".

Rifle Club - - - Track

The Rifle Club chose Tom English as president, Don Johnson as vice-president, Helen Vogts as secretary, and John Hausmann as treasurer. Mr. Eickhoff, with his "Ready, Aim, Squeeze," is their sponsor. Dick Sutorius is the senior executive. His duty is to keep the guns in firing order. The club is somewhat handicapped by the inadequate supply of ammunition and lack of transportation. Betty Bassett, Helen Vogts, Duane Hoehn, Dick Sutorius and Russell McMillen earned their letters last year. There are seventy members shooting this year and working toward N. R. A. awards. Letters are issued to those becoming "Expert Riflemen". Two teams will be entered in the Hearst Trophy Match. An award will be given to the best marksman, both boy and girl, by the Scholastic Magazine.

During the physical fitness classes this year, a new sport was introduced to the boys. This sport was track. Many contests were held among the boys and new athletes were soon found. Mr. Fryback's idea was to toughen up muscles that they didn't know they had and to start training for his basketball team. He started by giving 100 yd. dashes then gradually worked up to the mile run.

The boys hope to enter a track team in the Fort Wayne sectional meet this spring.

Physical Fitness for Trojans

The physical fitness program at Elmhurst this year included junior and senior boys. It is a required course by the government to build the boys up to tip-top shape. Mr. Fry-back instructed the class this year and gave the boys mostly calisthenics with very little marching.

He had mainly leg, arm and trunk exercises which soon proved to the boys that that class wasn't exactly a class of rest. Tuesdays and Wednesdays were the days for first aid, another requirement of the course. On these days the class having physical training spent the hour playing volley ball, dodge ball or gang basketball which wasn't so strenuous.

When the weather was suitable, the class moved to the outdoors to get their vitamin D, and to enjoy the cool breezes. Here a new sport, wrestling, was introduced to Elmhurst. Wrestling showed the fellows self-defense and how to take care of their opponents. It was very rough, but most of the boys enjoyed it as they could show one another who was the strongest. Leap frog was also common as a warm-weather activity.

Come On Red! Come On Gray!

Another long and tedious year has ended for the people behind the team.

Mr. Donald Fryback our present coach, succeeded Mr. Waveland Snider, who was inducted into the army last June. He worked hard and long with the team and we all give him a big hand. Mr. Fryback coached the team right up to the finals; and though we didnt retain the championship title, we all know which was the best team. Mr. Fryback coached at Harlan for seven years; this gave him quite a bit of experience before he came to Elmhurst.

Two more very efficient workers for the team were the student managers: Dick Deuter and Calvin Oyer. Dick held the place of senior manager, this being his second year; and Calvin, the place of junior manager. The manager has to be a junior manager before he is a fullfledged manager. At the end of the second year, he receives a letter. Calvin will carry on the job of keeping the balls clean, packing and unpacking suits for the games, and doing every little thing that comes his way again this year.

Barbara Kever and Phyllis McCoy, juniors, again led the enthusiastic Elmhurst fans with the assistance of two new girls, Marilyn Parkison and Viviann Grepke, sophomores. The four made a flashy and peppy appearance in their bright red and gray outfits. They were in there plugging right up to the finish.

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

What does this picture mean to you? To those who are giving their services and perhaps their lives, this scene must have meant a great deal. It stands for happy memories of their schooldays, and most of all, everyone's freedom.

To us it is a symbol of fellowship, love, and service. It stands for our duties as a citizen of the United States. It carries on the spirit of countless students before and after us. We hope this picture recalls happy memories of your highschool days.

The annual class tourneys took place March 7, 9, and 10. The classes chose their colors, yell leaders, coaches and names and started decorating about a week before. More fun!!

The Senior Honey Dippers' colors were orange and green. The Junior Wolves chose black and white. Red and white stood for the Sophomore Zombies, and blue and white for the Freshman Tigers.

The Senior girls won an easy victory over the Freshman and Junior girls. The Sophomores were eliminated in an early battle.

The Senior boys also took their tourney but had to fight against the Junior boys. The Freshies, who defeated the Sophomores earlier, put up a battle the first half but were then lost.

The following schedules show the results of the tourneys:

Girls			Boys
Juniors			Sophomores
Sophomores	Juniors 23-18		Freshmen	Freshmen 24-22
Seniors		Seniors 42-11	Juniors		Seniors 39-15
Freshmen	Seniors 35-10		Seniors	Seniors 25-18

In the Red Cross salvage drive, room 15, the sophomores, won the contest for the most pounds in February. One section of juniors, room 11, won the March home room contest. The leading contributors were: J. Pond, B. Kinerk, D. Kahlenbeck, B. Rayl, V. Fisher, D. Seiler, D. Sutorius, C. Ray, P. Gordon and A. Shoner. Three junior boys, D. Schmidt, B. Rayl and C. Oyer, were in charge of the scrap drive schedule and the weighing of the amounts contributed. For these two months over 10 tons of tin and paper were collected.

Oops, pardon the unjournalistic style of the following, but we did want to keep Annie up-to-date. A big blizzard cancelled the Home Ec Valentine party so it was held March 3. The juniors chose a South Sea Paradise as their prom theme. What purty flowers! The freshmen skated on April 14. On May 13, the seniors bar queted at the Y. M. C. A. Was that prophecy ever a duzy! The Commercial Club held their banquet May 18. These grads joined the armed forces since midterm: E. Stemen, H. Morse, D. Capin, and F. Lehman. May 26 was the end of the seniors' rotioning period; school was out, school was out (well, you can finish it).
